Resident / Family Education Measles in Ontario

Measles, once believed to be eradicated in the Americas, is on the rise in Ontario. This is a highly contagious, respiratory virus with symptoms of fever, red blotchy rash, red watery eyes and a cough. Immunization has been the best course of action to protect against it.

Since immigration and travel to the endemic countries has increased we have seen an increase in the cases here, along with a decline in immunizations. It is suggested before travelling that you ensure your vaccines are up to date. If unsure of your status, there is no harm in getting the vaccine for those already immune but unsure.

If you have travelled out of Canada, have had known contact with someone with measles, or reside in an area where measles has recently been identified, and you are experiencing the symptoms mentioned above, please contact your physician or local Public Health office and follow their direction.
